Bennyroyce Royon (@bennyroyce) is a Filipino-American director, choreographer, and educator working between Seattle and New York City. He received a BFA in Dance from The Juilliard School. Other dance training includes Springboard Danse Montréal, Boston Ballet Summer Dance Program, and The Rock School Summer Ballet Intensive. He has worked on and off Broadway, at The Metropolitan Opera, the New York Philharmonic, and with several dance companies, including Armitage Gone! Dance, Sidra Bell Dance New York, Carolyn Dorfman Dance, and Bad Boys of Dance. Mr. Royon has received commissions from Atlanta Ballet, Ballet Hispánico, Point Park University, Mason Gross School of the Arts, American University, DeSales University, and The Joffrey Academy of Dance, to name a few. His works have been praised by dance critics as "unexpected and heart-stoppingly dramatic" and "refreshingly original." He has been awarded several creative residencies, including CUNY Dance Initiative, Velocity Dance Center's Creative Resident Award, and The Joffrey Ballet's Winning Works Choreography Award. In 2010, he founded Bennyroyce Dance, a project-based contemporary dance company. The company inspires, educates, and uplifts diverse audiences through meaningful performances, classes, workshops, and community events.
